WESTERN SPIRIT

Set in the striking landscape of Steamboat Springs, Colorado, the Wild Goose Ranch is an authentic interpretation of Western tradition infused with modern-day amenities. With a nod to ranch homes of a bygone era, the residence comprises three buildings connected by light-drenched enclosed walkways. Renewable energy sources and energy-efficient design elements are in place throughout the project. Agricultural ponds dot the property, referencing its history, while nearby, a timber-frame barn hosts a variety of community events sponsored by the civic-minded homeowners. Kelly & Stone Architects created the original master plan for this energy-efficient showpiece, as well as the design for the main residence and barn. A member of the United States Green Building Council, the award-winning firm is dedicated to incorporating sustainable building solutions into their residential and commercial projects. Stunning examples of their work can be seen throughout the mountain west. Visit www.ksaarch.com or call 970.875.0590

ACCENTS

To create custom interiors that are comfortable, personal, and that integrate the furnishings and fixtures they've acquired from around the world, the Wild Goose Ranch residence worked with Accents, Interiors by Sarah Vaughan, a Vail-based interior designer. Vaughan travels worldwide, planning and acquiring décor for people with new homes, changes in lifestyle, remodeling projects and more. She specializes in weaving together the possessions homeowners already have with colors, textures and prints to create a home that is a unique expression of the people who live there. Paying careful attention to the classic guidelines of lines and proportions, Vaughan combines the interior elements of a home, encompassing tile, wallpapers, rugs, furnishings, accessories and more into spaces that stand the test of time. landscape design

SONES LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE GROUP

Sones Landscape Architecture Group was responsible for the design of the Wild Goose Ranch residence's landscape and exterior elements. SLA responded to the challenge of integrating the home into the existing hay meadows that surround it by transforming existing irrigation ditches into naturalistic ponds and utilizing large drifts of ornamental grasses to bring the form and texture of the hay meadows into the home's landscape. The company is known for its design of outdoor living areas, primarily in the residential market, and for integrating amenities such as pools, spas, fireplaces and artwork naturally into the landscape. SLA works primarily in Colorado's resort communities, but also applies their understanding, appreciation and interpretation of the mountain lifestyle to design projects from coast to coast. Whether working with a rustic lodge or a contemporary style home, SLA respects and responds to the architectural style to integrate the home and site elements to form a seamless transition to the natural landscape.

custom spa

Diamond Spa

For their custom, hand-crafted stainless steel spa, the Wild Goose Ranch residence turned to Diamond Spas, located in Frederick, Colorado. With room for eight, the spa features an automatic retractable cover and underwater LED light therapy. Diamond Spas fabricates custom aquatic products in either stainless steel or copper. The entire product line consists of spas, swim spas, swimming pools, water features and bath fixtures. Stainless steel and copper are highly durable. A stainless steel or copper spa will never fade, crack or blister like traditional spa construction materials. Additionally, both materials are sustainable and completely recyclable, making them a good investment for both the consumer and the environment. Every product is built to specifically for each individual client. Metal offers superb design flexibility offering no boundaries when it comes to dimensional requirements. Diamond Spas is a family owned and operated business and since 1996 has shipped product all over the world in both commercial and residential markets.
